See Where You're Aligned, Where You're Drifting,
and What Needs Your Attention Next

steward a life that matters.

The Stewardship Blueprint

Welcome from Michael

Most people do not drift because they do not care.

They drift because life gets full. Responsibilities grow. Calendars fill. Work expands. Family needs attention. Financial pressure builds. Health gets pushed aside. Joy becomes something we hope to get back to someday.

And somewhere along the way, many people stop asking one of the most important questions they could ever ask:

What kind of life am I actually building?

The Created for More Check-In is not designed to make you feel guilty or overwhelmed. It is not a test you pass or fail. It is a simple reflection tool to help you pause, look honestly at the direction of your life, and identify one area that may need your attention next.

You do not need to fix everything today. You simply need to begin noticing. Because awareness is where stewardship begins.

I approach this work from a Christian faith perspective because that is the lens through which I have learned to understand life, purpose, family, work, money, and legacy. But this guide is faith-based, not faith-exclusive. Wherever you are starting from, you are welcome here. The invitation is simple: slow down, think deeply, and begin paying attention to the life you are building.

Why This Check-In Matters

Busyness Can Disguise Drift

Most people are not doing nothing. They are doing everything. The danger is not usually laziness. The danger is motion without direction.

Success Does Not Always Equal Alignment

A person can be successful and still be misaligned. Productive and still exhausted. Responsible and still reactive. Impressive from a distance and unsettled up close.

Reflection Is Where Transformation Begins

Before you can redesign your life, you have to see your life clearly.

You cannot steward what you refuse to examine.

This check-in will help you evaluate five key areas of your life: Purpose, Family, Fitness, Fun, and Finances.

These connect to the larger Stewardship Blueprint framework, which helps people design a life around faith, purpose, relationships, health, joy, resources, guardrails, habits, energy, and legacy.

How to Use the Check-In

Set aside 10 to 15 quiet minutes. You can complete this quickly, but do not rush through it. The value is not in the score alone. The value is in the honesty.

For each statement, rate yourself from 1 to 5.

1	Strongly Disagree	This is rarely true in my life right now.
2	Disagree	This is occasionally true, but not consistently.
3	Neutral / Unsure	This is somewhat true, but I have room to grow.
4	Agree	This is mostly true in my life.
5	Strongly Agree	This is consistently true and intentionally protected.

Answer based on what is actually true, not what you wish were true.

Your calendar, habits, energy, relationships, spending, and recurring thoughts often tell the truth before your intentions do.

Section 1

Purpose & Direction

Section 5

Finances & Stewardship

Core question: Is money serving my purpose, or shaping my identity?

Rate each statement from 1 to 5. Use the boxes to mark your answer honestly.

I see money as a tool, not the ultimate goal.	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
My spending reflects my values and priorities.	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
I have clarity about what financial stewardship looks like in this season.	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
I am using resources for provision, generosity, freedom, and impact.	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
I am not allowing fear, comparison, status, or accumulation to define success.	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐

Section Score: ____ / 25

Score Your Check-In

Add each section score and then calculate your total score out of 125. This is not a pass/fail test. It is a reflection tool designed to help you notice where alignment is strong and where drift may be showing up.

Purpose & Direction	____ / 25
Family & Relationships	____ / 25
Fitness & Energy	____ / 25
Fun & Meaningful Experiences	____ / 25
Finances & Stewardship	____ / 25
Total Score	____ / 125

The point is not to judge your life. The point is to see it clearly enough to steward it wisely.

What Your Score May Be Telling You

100-125: Aligned and Intentional

You appear to be living with a meaningful level of clarity and intentionality. The next step is not complacency. It is protection. What is healthy should be guarded, strengthened, and sustained.

Reflection: What rhythm, relationship, habit, or priority do I need to protect?

75-99: Aware but Stretched

You likely have meaningful alignment in some areas, but you may also feel stretched, reactive, or inconsistent. This is a common place for responsible people. You are not off track, but busyness may be beginning to create drift.

Reflection: Where am I giving too much attention to urgency and not enough to importance?

50-74: Drifting in Key Areas

Your score may indicate that parts of your life are being shaped more by default than by design. This is not a reason for shame. It is a reason to pause, pay attention, and begin making intentional adjustments.

Reflection: Which area of my life is asking for my attention right now?

Below 50: Time to Pause and Rebuild

This may be a season where you need deeper reflection, support, and realignment. Do not try to fix everything at once. Start with one area. Awareness is the beginning of stewardship.

Reflection: What is one honest step I can take this week?

Identify Your Next Step

Insight becomes powerful when it turns into action. Do not try to redesign your entire life in one day. Begin with one faithful next step.

Step 1: Circle Your Lowest Section

Purpose & Direction Family & Relationships Fitness & Energy
Fun & Meaningful Experiences Finances & Stewardship

Step 2: Complete This Sentence

In this season, I sense I need to pay attention to:

Step 3: Choose One Small Action

This week, I will:

Step 4: Choose One Conversation

One person I may need to talk with about this is:

Step 5: Choose One Rhythm

One rhythm, habit, or calendar adjustment that could help is:

Begin with one faithful next step.

Reflection Questions

Use these questions to continue the work of awareness. You do not need to answer them all at once. Let one or two become a starting point for prayer, journaling, conversation, or planning.

1. What kind of life am I actually building right now?
2. Where am I confusing busyness with faithfulness?
3. What does my calendar reveal about my true priorities?
4. What does my spending reveal about what I value, fear, or desire?
5. Who is receiving the best version of me, and who is receiving what is left over?
6. Where am I living by default rather than by design?
7. What area of my life feels most misaligned right now?
8. What would change if I saw my life not merely as something I own, but as something entrusted to me?
9. What is one area where I need to stop drifting and begin stewarding?
10. What is one step I can take this week?

Join The Stewardship Blueprint Journey

The Created for More Check-In is only a beginning.

I am currently writing The Stewardship Blueprint, a book and movement designed to help people design their life, steward their resources, and build a legacy that matters.

This journey is about more than money. It is about faith, family, fitness, fun, finances, guardrails, habits, energy, and legacy. It is about learning to live by design rather than drift by default.

As I write, I will be sharing articles, reflection questions, practical tools, and behind-the-scenes updates to help you apply these ideas in your own life.

Follow along as the book is written and receive practical tools to help you build a life that matters.
